Large Irish Bomb Plant Confiscated By English Police

LONDON PAPERS QUESTION LLOYD GEORGE'S IRISH POLICY OF HOLDING SWORD IN ONE HAND AND OLIVE BRANCH IN ANOTHER—HOUSE OF COMMONS TO DISCUSS ISSUES TUESDAY

DUBLIN, Dec. 11—A plant for the manufacture of bombs was discovered during an early morning raid today on a bicycle repair shop in Parnell street, in the center of Dublin.

Large quantities of arms, ammunition, bombs and gelignite were seized. Three men were arrested, one of whom was shot and wounded while attempting to escape

To Debate Policy

LONDON, Dec 11—Debate on the government's Irish policy is expected to be opened in the house of commons by liberal leaders next Tuesday. Announcement of martial law in southwestern Ireland, made by Premier Lloyd George before the house yesterday, was accompanied by intimations that debate on the subject was not desired but it appears probable the lower house of parliament may be called upon to decide whether the cabinet's plans regarding Ireland are to be carried into execution without the acquiescence of the legislative branch of the government

This question should it come to a vote, would test the stability of the Lloyd George cabinet

Continue Negotiations

Although the declaration of martial law in Ireland has been decided upon, the door to negotiations between the government and Sinn Fein is not considered closed

Coment in this morning's newspapers relative to the government's Irish policy, was for the most part [illegible], with the exception of one journal, the government's proposals were nowhere wholly condemned The nature of the premier's speech that did not escape notice was the act he was in effect, holding an olive branch in one hand and the sword in the other.

FAVORS CHRONICLE-TELEGRAM POSITION ON CITY LIBRARY

Miss Grace M Peterson, librarian at the Elyria library has issued an appeal to the public in behalf of the library in a communication to the Chronicle-Telegram She commends the X-Ray column of Friday's paper stating that "It was very timely and struck the nail on the head" Continuing Miss Peterson has this to say

"Do you realize that over 1000 books have passed over the little inadequate delivery desk we have at the library on three consecutive Saturdays? Does it seem possible? Can you imagine the difficulties involved in trying to conduct such a business with such an insufficient equipment? Do you know that we have 5000 active borrowers? Do you know that we are averaging a daily circulation of nearly 300 volumes? Do you know that we have a long list of books wanted that we cannot buy because our fund is exhausted? Do you suppose there might be some one in Elyria who could be sufficiently touched by one of your appeals to put their hands in their pockets and donate as a sweet Christmas gift to the city of Elyria $25 or $30 or more to help purchase books along some given line of fiction or otherwise, just what ever branch they feel the library to be weak in? It would be a gift that would bring cheer to numerous persons"

"No librarian has too large a book fund, and I am no exception to the rule We have spent hundreds of dollars for books since we opened as a free library last April and still have a long list of "asked for" books which cannot be purchased because of the negligence of some persons in paying their pledges to the Community Chest"

Japs Won't Disarm As Long as America Continues Policies

GENEVA, Dec. 11—Japan cannot decrease her armaments as long as the United States is increasing hers, Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, of the Japanese delegation declared at a meeting of the armament commission this afternoon when the question of disarmament was under discussion.

Recommend Three Stages

Disarmament in three stages is the substance of the recommendation the committee on armaments of the league of nations assembly will make to the assembly as the result of its deliberations

The first stage would be by an agreement among the powers to make no further increases in armaments

The second stage of the recommended procedure is a graduated reduction in armaments

The third stage would be that of general complete disarmament, except insofar as arms were needed for police purposes

M Doret delegate from Hayti, succeeded in securing the adoption by the committee this morning of an amendment providing that the council of the league could guarantee a propaganda campaign for "disarmament minds" as he put it meant the preparation for the new order of things by proper education in the schools

A law would also be proposed to remove personal tax on automobiles, the speaker stating that at present there was double taxation He believed that there should be State highway police who would look after and regulate traffic only, thereby tending to make travel more safe There were a number of other good points and suggestions that made his talk of great interest to his hearers

Discuss Present Conditions

Thomas C. Jefferies, a Former Elyrian, Is Counterfeit Expert

Friends of Thomas C Jefferies, a former resident of East avenue, of this city, will be interested to learn that he is doing his bit to discourage counterfeiting and that the bank note identification chart which he has perfected is in great demand throughout the country

Jefferies is now located at Rutherford, New Jersey where he is engaged in preparing these charts for the use of bankers, many years experience in banking institutions having convinced him that there must be some simple manner of detecting counterfeit bills

Bill raisers seldom consider it necessary to alter the appearance of the portrait on a government note, but devote their effort to changing the numbers on the bills so as to deceive the person who accepts them at face value

One dollar bills are frequently raised to resemble the $10 note and $10 notes under the skillful fingers of a bill raiser are easily mistaken for currency in the denomination of $100

To familiarize bank tellers and cashiers with the proper portraits which should appear on the different bank notes, Jefferies has prepared on all federal reserve notes as well as a likeness of the individual

By consulting the chart in case a suspicious bill is presented a banker, all the teller or cashier has to do is to glance at identification index and ascertain if the proper potrait and other designs printed on legal tender are the some as those shown on the cardboard in the teller's cage

MANY CALLS FOR ASSISTANCE COME FROM MEN OUT OF WORK

Requests for assistance from the poor of this city are increasing from day to day and the officials at city hall are arranging to provide food and clothing for them until an appropriation can be made to tide them over this winter

Until the budget for 1921 is prepared and adopted there is no way to pay bills contracted on behalf of the poor and needy but so far it has been possible to furnish them with the necessities of life and the debts will be liquidated at a later date

Sickness prevails in some of the homes and where there are members of the family who are out of work the situation is rather serious and the officials of the city are concerned to some extent lest the demands for assistance increase several fold before the period of readjustment is terminated

HOW ABOUT IMMIGRATION?

There is considerable agitation over the question of immigration and there is a wide diversity of opinion as to what provision should be taken in the proposed immigration laws.

Some suggest an absolute prohibition of immigration, others that the immigrants should be 'hand picked' and only the desirable permitted, just how these desirables are to be determined has not yet been suggested. Others suggest that if they are to be permitted to come in any numbers that the government should have the right to distribute them.

Some fear that the immigrant will drive the American out of his job, others fear that the so-called Reds will drive the government out of its job, and so the fears are expressed.

We believe there is room in America for the homeseekers of other countries, and while we believe that our own labor should be protected at all times, yet we believe that this can be done and still have America continue to be the haven for the needy and oppressed of the Old World, to a large degree.

"ANTI-TALK" SOCIETY FORMED

A society has been organized in Oklahoma that is entitled "The Society for the Discouragement of Conversation."

One of the Main Street merchants in Oklahoma has declared that his sales have increased since this society was organized. He says that no longer do groups gather at his counters holding little conventions, while he pays the rent, but they attend to their needs with alacrity.

It may be possible that this merchant has not struck the real point that has increased his sales, by this "Anti Gab Society," for the shoppers would say that if the clerks belonged to it many times they would be waited upon more promptly. As it is now they often have to wait until one of the clerks gets through describing to her chum the details of the trip her aunt made to New Zealand last month.

A "Society for the Discouragement of Conversation" confining its operations to those times when conversation will inconvenience others would be a good society to foster.

THE FARMERS AND CREDITS

The farmers are looking for relief and the failure to obtain credit in many cases, as we have pointed out before, is really a very serious danger to them.

The output of the farms last year, and we are referring to both food and textile production of the farm, amounted to $25,000,000,000.

The difficulty with the farmer is that he endeavors to market his crop all at one time. If this marketing could be distributed over the year, as there was a demand for it in the country, cars and money for shipment would not be in such great demand at one time and the banks would not be put to it to meet this tremendous obligation. Distribution of the transportation would save the transportation companies from their big congestion.

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR WILSON'S BOOK

It is stated that President Wilson is going to write a book as soon as he is relieved from the responsibilities of the presidency.

Someone has suggested some titles for a few of the chapters. Among them are the following:—

"Why I went back on Colonel Harvey and what Harvey did to me."
"How I dumped Bryan and how Bryan got even."
"Where I picked my cabinet and why."
"What I did to Lansing and why."
"Why I went to Europe."
"Life in Buckingham Palace."
"Where I lost my 'Fourteen Points' and why."
"What they did to me at Versailles and what I thought I was doing to them."
"What I think of a Republican Senate."

WHY DON'T THEY TRY IT?

The Wall Street Journal suggests that in as much as every Russian leader who has fought the Bolsheviks and has been recognized by the Allies has been beaten that it might be worth while to try it on Lenine.

We believe that if Lenine and Trotzky were recognized by America, Great Britain and France, the Russian people would think something was the matter with them sure enough and turn on them.

HARVEY GIVES HARDING NEW LEAGUE PLAN

MARION O, Dec 11—Suggestions for a new American foreign policy, including the formation of an association of nations were heard by President-Elect Harding today from Colonel George Harvey who was one of his close advisers in formulating his campaign policies toward the Bersailles league

Colonel Harvey came to Marion yesterday and in addition to holding long conversations on the subject with President-elect Harding today it was thought he might remain until next week to give his advice as the administration program develops

Mr Harding has indicted that even the groundwork for the association of nations is yet to be laid and that he begins his promised "meeting of minds" here without a definite plan even of rudimentary forms, for an international council In asking advice he will seek a program behind which there is some assurance of an united country, rather than an attempt to put forward any specifications of his own.

In that connection it isrecalled that when he first proposed an association of nations in his speech of August 28, he suggested that it be builded on the framework of the Hague tribunal or upon the practicable features of the Versailles league or by combining "all that is good in both" Since that time he has given no indication that he is prepared to be more definite in his recommendations, and it is expected that during the coming months he will ask his conferees in particular which of these instrumentalities they consider most available

Bound up in this is the question of whether the United States should enter the Versailles league on any terms, and before Mr Harding makes his decision he will talk with those who favor going in without reservations as well as those who favor staying out entirely Colonel Harvey belongs to the latter class, while Herbert Hoover, who will be here tomorrow, was a leader of the pro-league group

X-RAYS

Reorganization

Of the Lorain Co. Farm Bureau

Is a thing to be commended.

The farmers of our land

Have always been the "goats"

And the reason for this condition

May be directly traced

To LACK of organization.

Organize the sons of the soil,

And they will soon realize

Their splendid importance.

With perfect organization

The rural workers

Will come into their own.

A few days ago

I was in a grocery store

A farmer came in selling apples,

He was offered and accepted,

Seventy five cents a bushel

For his "hand picked" fruit.

I asked the groceryman

The price of the apples

And he sold them to me

For $1.50 a bushel.

100 per cent is too much profit

For any business to expect.

Let the farmers organize

And then see to it

That the power they gain

Is not used selfishly

Operate the farm bureaus

On a strict business basis.

If a general manager is needed,

Hire a man of principle

And a man of ability

Down in Ottawa County.

The peach growers are organized

They have a central station

Where their fruit is marketed.

They employ an able manager

To look after their interests

And the result is obvious

Every farmer in the county

Should belong to the bureau,

Should take an active part

In its deliberations.

Should see that its business

Is properly conducted

Farmers, ORGANIZE,

And then don't forget

To share with US consumers

The benefits of this organization

WILL ARREST MOTHER WHO KILLED BABES

WARREN, O, Dec. 11.—Trumbull county authorities declared today that in view of testimony at the coroner's inquest here, they would issue a warrant against Mrs. Thomas Koehler charging her with killing her two children, whose remains were found in the ruins of their home near Hubbard last Sunday.

At the same time it was said that relatives of Mrs. Koehler, in conference with their attorney, were planning to forestall such action by asking the probate court to adjudge her insane.

Harry Coller, a neighbor, repeated at the inquest his story that when he approached the Koehler home Sunday night, Mrs. Koehler ran out and told him that she had shot her children and herself. He said he went to get help and that Mrs. Koehler went to a neighbors where she said a bandit had shot her. Later the house was found to be afire.

PILGRIM SETTING IN E. H. S. MID-YEAR CLASS PLAY MOST EFFECTIVE

Entertainment to be Repeated This Evening in High School Auditorium

Last evening the first mid-year class to be graduated from Elyria high school presented the play, "A Rose o' Plymouth Town," to a large and most appreciative audience.

The setting of this play was away back in "ye olden tymes of 1622 and 1623 at historic Plymouth in New England, and the quaint costumes of the Puritans were used.

Everyone, from John, the hard-heatred villain, to the vivacious

little heroine, Rose, with her bobbing curls, played their parts splendidly. Aunt Resolute supplied unending humor with her blunt and caustic speeches, and Phillipe won many laughs in his portrayal of the forlorn lover

Excitement reached a high point when the two suitors, John and Garrett, fought a regular honest-to-goodness duel, with swords

The only disappointment the audience received was the dropping of the curtains at the final scene before the hero could snatch his first kiss from the heroine, and it is to b esuspected that the clever director, Miss Helen Todd is to be blamed for this

Music, and it was very good music too, was furnished by the Elyria high school orchestra

The play from start to finish wasa great success Elyria citizens who were unable to be present last evening are delighted that it will be repeated tonight so now all you unforcunates who did not have the opportunity of seeing it last night still have a chance

The cast was as follows

Miles Standish captain of Plymouth Harry Lawrence

Garrett Foster of Weston's men, John Smith

John Margeson and Philippe De la Noye of the Plymouth colonists, Leroy Reisinger and Reginald Dwire

Miriam Chillingsley, cousin to the captain, Ruth Meyers

Barbara Standish wife to the captain, Clara Rankin

Resolute Story, aunt to the captain, Ruth Aussiker

Rose De la Noye, Wendla Blanchard

The four acts were as follows

First An early morning in August—Stolen Fruit

Second Afternoon in October—A Maid's Toys

Third A night in March The Red Light on the Snow

Fourth. The Next Afternoon—The Better Man.

PROBING WATER SUPPLY IN CARLISLE

lisle, but also begged to be excused from committing himself as to any suggestion he might offer the city officials along that line

It is reported that the residents of Carlisle who have opposed annexation to this city for several years past, do so because they have not been invited to become residents of Elyria, but because the city has forced the issue upon them.

May Favor Annexation

When informed as to the sentiment alleged to prevail among the residents now supplied with city water, Mayor Jones stated that he considered it a mighty poor excuse to offer on the part of the people who were enjoying all the benefits accorded Elyrians but who desired to escape paying city taxes

Developments are expected to follow the investigation now under way and the residents of this city and also those of Carlisle will undoubtedly await them with interest

At least one resident of Carlisel who favors annexation says he would not blame the city a bit if it were to refuse water service to customers in that section of the country.

'So Long Letty' Coming Sunday to Colonial Has Laughs and Moral

GRACE DARMOND, T. ROY BARNES and COLLEEN MOORE in AL CHRISTIE'S "SO LONG LETTY" ROBERTSON-COLE SUPER-SPECIAL

Which do you prefer—real home cooked food in a cozy well-kept bungalow, or restaurant fodder, Paris gowns and a neglected home? Whatever your choice, go see "So Long Letty," the Robertson-Cole super-special which opens tomorrow at the Colonial theatre for a run of three days. Al Christie, the famous comedy-drama producer, screened the picture and he has improved on the famous Oliver Morosco play of the same name.

There is a series of situations in "So Long Letty" that both tickle the funny bone and give opportunity for serious thought. A problem which many married couples encounter in everyday life is presented in a manner to leave a deep impression without creating a bad taste. It proves that at times it is perfectly simple to "carry on" provided the disgruntled individual is taught a good lesson.

At the opening of the picture two recently married couples, who are neighbors, find themselves gradually becoming dissatisfied because of differences in temperaments. One hubby who has always dreamed of a home, the open fireplace and a regular mahogany groaning with home-cooked viands finds that friend wife has a penchant for restaurant food, jazz and wearing apparel with a Paris label. The other chap who goes mad at the sight of a beautiful gown and loves to eat in the realm of "red ink" and spaghetti, discovers his wife prefers a house dress, home cooking and knitting.

Sounds like a problem and the two husbands are sure they have made the greatest mistakes of their lives. They hold a conference and decide that before they continue numberless years under the conditions, thy had better summon attorneys and see what can be done via the divorce route. Each intends to marry the other's wife and thus straighten out the situation.

Having been duly informed by the husbands of the contemplated step, the wives decide they are both crazy and agree to the pact in order to teach the husbands a lesson. They demand a trial marriage of one week before starting court proceedings. Just what happens during that week is the punch of the picture and well worth seeing.

Mr. Christie gathered an extraordinary good cast for "So Long Letty," including T. Roy Barnes, Grace Darmond, Colleen Moore and Walter Hiers. Bathing scene throughout the picture introduce a number of beautiful west coast swimmers who believe that too much material spoils a bathing suit.

Florence Vidor in "The Jack-Knife Man"

American

"Jack Knife Man"

Human interest comedy and pathos are the predominating features in the new King Vidor photoplay "Married Life," just released through the First National and booked as the attraction at the American tomorow.

A shanty-boat on the Mississippi river forms the chief setting of this delightful picture and its owner old Peter, "the Jack-Knife-Man" is one of the most unique and lovable characters reproduced on the screen in many moons. Ellis Parker Butler has graised a wealth of unique personages in this story that are novel and interesting and the quaintness of it all makes for an appeal to the author that is extremely strong. King Vidor has cast this picture with unusual care and every member of the talented cast is fitted to the role with an intelligence that insures a finished perfomrance. This cast, headed by Florence Vidor, includes Fred Turner, Harry Todd, Claire Mc Dowell, Bobby Kelso, Lillian Leighton, Willis Marks, Charles Arling and James Corrigan.

Ellis Parker Butler, the author, will be remembered by a host of people through his famous novelette, "Pigs Is Pigs."

Elyria Ministers Interviewed On Crusade For Puritanical Sabbath For The Nation

That existing Sunday laws should be enforced appeared to be the consensus of opinion among the Elyria ministers, when interviewed today relative to the announcement of the National Reform association to the effect that a unit was to be organized in each state to establish more stringent laws to "uncommercialize the Sabbath."

A number of the Elyria pastors were out of the city when called upon and their views could not be learned, and one was of the opinion that until the crusade became a local issue he did not care to be quoted. Others when questioned expressed themselves as follows:

Rev. P. Bourquin, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church—

"My opinion is that we should strictly observe Sunday as a day of rest, as the Lord expects us and commands us to do."

Rev. Dr. Winters, pastor of First Methodist church—

"The agitation for a better Sabbath is coming none too soon. A demoralized Lord's Day means a demoralized nation. And that man is a true patriot who he advocates the faithful observance of one day in seven in rest obtained from the worship of God—good reading and wholesome recreation. That it is possible to carry the so called Blue Laws too far is certain. But let us not be concerned about that until there has been something of a turning away from the many and terrible violations of the Lord's Day which overmore tend toward the horrors of the European Sabbath—the wicked one day of the seven."

Rev. W. S. Smith, pastor of United Presbyterian church—

"I am in favor of a stricter observance of the Lord's Day because Christianity is the basis of our civilization. Without the church christianity could not be maintained and the church cannot long hold out with the present commercialized Sunday.

"Moreover, where the first day of the week is made a day of revel there is more Sunday work, employers arguing that if their men can spend the day playing some game that takes as much or more physical energy than work, they might as well work, thus many men are forced to work who would prefer to lok after their spiritual lives on that day. I am not sure that we shall have to go back to the Puritan mode of observance of the day but there certainly is great need of some drastic reform, in these days if we are to be kept off the rocks."

Rev Edwin B. Redhead, pastor of St. Andrews Episcopal church—

"The cardinal principles on which Sunday rests are rest and worship. Anything which threatens to impair its sacred character as such should be discouraged. We have laws to protect the day and prevent its profanation. Let these laws be enforced. We do not want a Jewish Sabbath nor a Puritan Sunday but we do need a careful and conscientious observance of the first day of the week as a day of rest and worship."

Rev. W. L. Burner, pastor of [illegible] of Christ—

"Should the theaters and movies be [illegible] on Sundays" I answer "yes" for three reasons.

First, because we must be law abiding citizens. There is a state law against Sunday shows. This law has been tested several times and has always stood. We have heard much and rightly, about law enforcement in the matter of prohibition. It is just as lawless to have these places of amusement open on Sunday as it is to manufacture and sell alcoholic beverages. We must obey the law.

Second. There are six days in which all such shows may legally and profitably operate. Six nights a week should be sufficient for any movie enthusiast. Lets have one nights rest in seven.

Third, to operate theaters movies and general amusements on Sunday breaks down the sanctity of the day, lowers the moral standard of the community and further destroys the all too rapidly disintegrating home life. One day in seven should be reserved for our spiritual upbuilding. Sunday amusements are attracting the young people from the church at the very time when the religious impressions should be made deep and lasting. Consequently we are developing an irreligious and unmoral generation who will soon be the leaders of the national life. When the Lord's Day is desecrated and God's house persistently neglected moral, spiritual and even material disintergration soon follows. God gave us one day in seven for spiritual upbuilding and it should be so used."

As Winter Approaches The Responsibilities of Churches Increase

"God has forgotten us," a hungry little girl wailed to her sister. The sister's lip trembled, but she bravely replied: "No, God has not forgotten us. He has told somebody to help us, and that somebody has forgotten us."

It was Jesus who said: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my bretheren, ye have done it unto me."

An appeal on behalf of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, has been issued by the "Friendly Visitors" from the churches of United States who were in Europe this summer. These visitors were group of about fifty clergymen who were authorized by the Federal Council of the churches of Christ in America to represent the Christian people of America in their messages to the destitute Protestant congregations in the war stricken countries.

Delegations of these visitors personally investigated conditions in most of teh needy countries, including Hungary, Austria, Poland, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Roumania, Transylvania and Jugo-Slavis. They testify from intimate personal observation and thoughtful inquiry that the descriptions of those pitiable conditions have not been exaggerated and are so extreme that they cannot be exaggerated and declare the need is urgent and desperate.

In the appeal the Christian churches of the United States are called upon "to recognize and accept their responsibility to assist the distressed peoples of Europe, who are suffering, to the full, the grievous consequences of a war from which we as a nation have emerged relatively unscathed.

"Great populations are hungry, almost naked, and are becoming the prey of epidemic diseases diseases which, in their under nourished and impoverished condition, they are unable to resist. The recent death of one of the 'Friendly Visitors" from one of these causes is a striking testimony to this fact.

"The situation bears with special heaviness upon the children not only because of their helplessness, but because the elemental materials for their nourishment are the things most needed. Millions of little ones are actually starving and millions more are so retarded in their growth and there is imminent danger of a rising generation of anaemic and underdeveloped men and women.

"The needs of children in the form of food, clothing and medicines are immediately urgent and, although enormous, must be met and met at once by benevolent contributions which should be made entirely in the form of money. The approaching winter will bring added horrors. We find that the policy governing child-feeding is based on self-help and local resources, both in personal service and commodities, and that everything possible is being done to promote responsibility and avoid pauperizing.

"A pathetic illustration of the present need was afforded by an orphanage visited by one of our diecgations. The children were quiet and well-behaved with intelligent faces winsome children to whom one's heart instinctively went out. A young woman with one assistant was in charge. Because money is scarce and food dear they cannot afford servants, so these educated and refined young women do all the work of the orphanage themselves—making the beds, cooking and serving the food and caring for children. As we looked into the spotlessly clean and well-kept rooms and saw on every side the evidence of thoughtful and loving care, we had a feling that He who of old took little childre nin His arms, must be very near to that place. As we went away, we could not forbear asking the young lady in charge: "Can you manage to get enough for all these children to eat?" A wistfully tender look came into her face as she replied: "We give them all we have, but it is not enough. They cry for more. It is very hard. They are little children and they do not understand."

They do not understand. Do you?

THE SUPREME IMPORTANCE OF THE KINGDOM

International Sunday School Lesson for December 12, Text: Matthew 13: 44-58.

The relative importance of material and spiritual values is shown in the parables of the text for the International Sunday School lesson on December 12. The values of supreme importance are to be found in the spiritual qualities of the kingdom of heaven. The kingdom of heaven is not eating and drinking but righteousness and peace and joy.

The surpassing importance of the qualities of the kingdom is illustrated by the magnificent pearl for which the connoisseur in jewels would exchange all he had; or by the hidden treasure to obtain which a man would sacrifice everything he possessed; or by the edible fish which are kept while the other fish caught in the net are thrown away. By repeated illustrations Jesus declares that the kingdom of which he preaches is of greater value than anything else.

The material and spiritual are so intertwined that often no distinction is made between them by persons who mean to be devoted to the interests of the kingdom. Noted examples of the material realm and the spiritual kingdom are found respectively in wealth and character. Character belongs to the spiritual kingdom and should have supreme importance as compared with wealth. Yet wealth is too often sought and used as if in itself it were of the greatest moment. The attitude is assumed that the way in which wealth is secured does not matter so long as it is secured, and that the way it is spent does not matter so long as it is enjoyed.

From the point of view of the parables of the kingdom the way in which wealth is secured and the way in which it is used is of supreme importance because these concern personal character. If wealth has been secured by honest effort in the real service of mankind and if it is used to supply in wholesome form the genuine needs of human life then it is constructive of character.

County Federation To Hold Union Services

A union church service under the auspices of the county Church Federation will be held at the Methodist Church Wellington Monday evening January 10. Bishop W. F. Anderson will be the speaker. In the afternoon there will be a meeting of the County Ministerial Association and several committee meetings of the Federation.

Chronicle-Telegram want ads bring results.

Dr. Harry L. Bowlby.

Dr. Harry L. Bowlby is secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance. This organization is perfecting a national organization to obtain the passage of drastic Sunday "blue laws" in all states in the U. S. The closing of bathing beaches, pleasure resorts, movies, candy stores, tobacco shops and similar places on Sunday and the prohibition of golf, tennis, baseball and other forms of recreation on that day are sought.

THE 'MESSIAH' ORATORIO TO BE GIVEN HERE

The Methodist church chorus choir assisted by Mr. Whitney, tenor of Cleveland, Mrs. Ayers, soprano of Lorain, the contralto and bass parts being taken by Mrs. O. E. Brodbeck and the Director Mr. Ralph W. Wright, and an orchestra from Lorain to add to the accompaniment of the organ will present to the music lovers of Elyria "The Messiah" next Thursday evening, December 16th beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

It is always considered a treat to hear this oratorio, but especially in connection with the preparations and expectations of the Christmas season, says an Elyria vocalist "Handel sums up the prophecies in his masterly fashion and then expresses these, the birth of Jesus, the nature of His Kingdom and the Golden Future in music that enraptures the soul.

Indeed it is a most profitable study to follow the arrangement of the Texts of Scripture as set forth by this wonderful composer. The vision is certainly Heaven born and accomts for the sweetness and majestic sweep of the music and is itself a prophecy of that time when the Redeemer shall have brought all into subjection to his will and purpose, banishing sin and discord and bringing the entire vast creation and creatures into a wonderful harmony that will fill an endless eternity with praise. The choir of this church is to be commended for their splendid work as a musical organization at this time. By way of appreciation of the great oratorio and these singers the church should be crowded to the doors."

A Humble Heart

The president-elect of the United States showed a spirit of humbleness in the sermon he preached aboard his ship last Sunday morning. It is agreeable to find that wholesome quality in any man, especially one chosen by the people of a great nation for leadership.

No matter how much we may disagree with the politics of Mr. Harding we are anxious to find him well-balanced in any particular, and we believe that the man with a humble heart is better fitted for grappling with the many problems that confront America than a bigoted individual, who relies altogether upon himself, would be.

"The troubles of my heart are enlarged: Oh, bring me out of my distresses." "Let integrity and uprightness preserve me." These were part of the words of David read by our future chief executive on the occasion mentioned and he made it clear to those who heard him that it was in such a spirit that he was approaching the duties of the great office that he will soon be called upon to fill.

Let us feel more cheerful over the situation in knowing that our president-elect although we disagree with his politics and gave our vote and influence to his opponent is a man who stands before the great tasks he must perform with an humble heart.—Beaumont (Texas) Journal.

'BLUE LAWS' NATIONAL CRUSADE

The general topic of conservation since the echoes of the election have subsided, seems to be the proposed crusade by the members of the recently organized "Lords Day Alliance," and that the campaign if national campaign there be, will be spiritedly contested is, it is claimed is putting the remark mildly.

Some ministers are opposed to the agitation, claiming that the moral issues are up to the individual and that, if the church could only reach the great mass of people who in pleasure loving bent, desecrate the Saobath, there would be no need of the continual calling upon the law makers for more drastic action.

Along this line many newspapers throughout the country are discussing this crusade and the following article taken from the Detroit News of November 19, expresses the stand that many of the most devout Christians are taking.

The Christian faith, so richly watered through two thousand years with the prayers of the faithful, is essentially a preparation.

Where in it is preparation for a hereafter, it is no less a preparation for the present. Good living is no less important than good dying all creeds recognize that.

The Church, through whatever particular tenets it holds our interest, sums up its whole reason for being in this work of preparation. Its sublime task is to shape us, in character and action, so that we live right.

With the direct issue of national policy and international relations the Church and any part of it has no voice. The deeds of men are of their own will, the fruit of their character. If the Church's work is well done the character of the nation will be such that injustice at its instigation is impossible. There is the Church's responsibility; so to wield its influence that integrity becomes the watchword. National character at its base is individual character: individual character—"the saving of souls"—is the First work of the Church.

To the Church is confided this rich task of foundation; by the course of events its efforts may be judged. A nation, for example, unscrupulous and corrupt, fallen far from faith, lacking the abundant justice which goes hand in hand with discipleship to Christ, is a nation whose Church has failed, however mighty its efforts, to find its soul.

Such responsibility is, indeed, awful; the burden is tremendous; but it is the inescapable burden and responsibility of the ministry, the gravest and greatest in the world.

But, the Church having placed the foundations, man himself must rear the structure of society; that is his task; the proof of his character. His will enters in and, for good or ill, he builds his temple. If the edifice totters, how much of blame shall go to the builder who laid the foundations?

For the ministry to reach out and endeavor to correct results as expressed by the will of society, by peremptory warning or denunciation, is to betray a weakness. If the character is true, evil results cannot be. The essential of character is integrity. The essential of the Church's character is integrity.

Let the Church continue its sacred task of molding the character of men, and the men so shaped, will make worthy nations.

NURSERY DEPARTMENT IN ELYRIA CHURCHES?

The church that carries the slogan "The Church With a Welcome" in many cities is including the babies as well as others.

The large number of mothers attending the First Methodist church in Lorain and to enable many who were unable otherwise to attend, was brought to the attention of the Epworth League of that church the necessity of establishing a nursery which was in operation there last Sunday for the first time.

PLAN BANQUET FOR 2 EPISCOPAL PRELATES

Two prelates of the Episcopal church will be honored Monday night with a banquet in Hotel Winton. They are Rt. Rev. William A. Leonard and Rt. Rev. Frank du Moulin.

The Man Who Never Goes to Church

He does odd jobs about the house,
And tinkers at his car—
"Duty begins at home, you know—
Be good right where you are!"

His mind needs brushing up, he thinks,
He sends John to the store
To get the Sunday Supplements,
And reads them o'er and o'er.

Excepting one long afternoon,
He's had no time to play,
So on the links he plays the game
He played all Saturday.

His mother made him go to church
And to his meals, he says,
So since he has become a man
He neither eats nor prays.

Church bolsters conscience, duty, power,
As manhood's highest bliss—
His boy is stirred; but then he thinks—
"Dad takes no stock in this."

Mr. Laccohee, of London, a guest here will play at the United Presbyterian church on Sabbath. Evening at the hour of the evening service.

NEW ORGAN TO BE ADDED TO ST. MARY'S

Improvements and additions for St. Mary's Catholic church are under way, and the attractive stone and brick addition on north side, includes another entrance and exit which it nas been found necessary from the increasing membership.

The Sanctuary is also to be provided with a new carpet, a rest room is to be fitted up and last, but by no means, least, there is to be installed within the next year or so, a splendid organ, at a cost of $20,000, which is to replace the present instrument which has given so many years of faithful service and which is to the people of this parish, almost a relic of historical significance.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing, vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just

WANTS CONGREGATION TO DETERMINE KIND OF SUNDAY SERVICE

OBERLIN Dec. 11—Sunday evening church services do we need them? What kind of sermon should be given? Should it be like the morning sermon? What changes do you suggest? How important is the music? What themes are you interested in?

These questions are the gist of a letter being sent out by the office of Rev. Nicholas Vander Pyl, pastor of the United Congregational church, to a large number of people in Oberlin, in an effort to ascertain the feeling of the community regarding the Sunday evening services.

It is felt that, judged by the very large attendances at the morning meetings in Finney chapel the addresses at night are appealing to a smaller number of people, and the letter aims to get candid expressions of opinion as a basis for future policy.

The plan followed during the last ten years in First church, it is pointed out has been to have the evening services during the college year consist of four series of addresses, all of an inspirational nature or having a practical religious bearing.

Now that local congregations have united to form one large church, it is desired to clarify just what the wishes of the congregation are.

INDOOR TRACK WORK STARTS AT OBERLIN

OBERLIN, Dec. 11.—Indoor track work began with a bang here yesterday, when the first practice was held for the Sophomore-Freshman Meet which is to be held the 18.

Coach Metcalf has strong material in both outfits. For the Sophomores, Starr in the dashes and hurdles, Smith, a middle and short distance runner, and Moore, last year's Freshman Captain, are among the best prospects.

The Freshmen have a strong outfit, with Hungerford in the pole vault, Price in the high jump and short events, Grant in the high jump, and Loveland, a dash man, all in the running.

This meet will furnish the prelude to indoor work which will look toward the picking of the varsity squad late in the winter.

COMMENTS ON THE FORD PRISE CUT

"Seems as though John D. hasn't heard the news about what Henry did."—Kalamazoo Gazette.

"One Thing After Another—Just about the time the street car and interurban electric lines begin to ask for an increase in fares, Henry Ford makes a public announcement of a reduction in price of automobiles to pre-war levels. We thought of buying a new pair of shoes, but we have changed our mind and will buy a flivver."—Logansport, Ind., Tribune.

"Henry Ford has announced a cut of $142 on his automobiles. Won't that make him popular with some other big manufacturers, who will soon have to follow his example? And of course the public will not fancy this price-slashing either. That man Ford is always doing something to get himself in bad."—Donnybrook, N. Dak. Courier.

"If Henry Ford paid for all the free advetising his car has received, every humorist in the country would have enough money to buy one of the machines, but Henry wouldn't have enough left to manufacture any more."—New York American.

"Stating that he would not stand for an increase in tire prices, Henry Ford says: "If tire builders raise prices, I can finance an independent company and make them myself." And buh-lieve us, Henry can do just that little thing if he takes it into his head."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Henry Ford has shown some of the big ones how to get rid of high excess profits and income taxes. Just quit grabbing such."—Houston, Tex., Post.

"SPIRIT DRAWINGS" BY WOMAN INTEREST SCIENTISTS

Mrs. Emma Mabel Field and one of her drawings, directed by an unseen hand.

Chicago has an art spirit mystery which bids fair to rival the sensation caused by the spirit book written by Mrs. Curran of St. Louis at the direction of Patience Worth." For ten years Mrs. Emma Mabel Field has been drawing fantastic pictures with what she says is the aid of a spirit. She denies any knowledge of drawing. She says that she simply places her hand, with a pencil in it, on the drawing board and the spirit guides her hand. Most of the drawings are of Egyptian figures. Scientists and art critics are much interested in her case.

BILLY WHISKERS

Billy and his mother, their fun all over, were taken back down in the ship's hold and tied up tightly and it was the last time they got loose until they landed in America.

"At any rate," said Billy's mother, "we are together."

"I don't know how we can stay together, though," said Billy shaking his head. "I belong to Frank Brown and so far as I can tell, you don't belong to anybody. If you only did, maybe Mr. Brown would buy you, although I don't believe he wants me any more."

And Billy was right about Mr. Brown's not wanting any more goats.

The day they landed Frank Brown went to claim his goat. Billy and his mother were still together, but as Frank was about to take Billy away a woe-begone looking little fat man came rushing up.

"Those should been my goats, yes!" he exclaimed.

"Your goats?" said Mr. Brown rather angrily. "Why, man that one with the singed spots on his back we have just brought over with us from France."

"It makes me nothing out!" exclaimed the man. "They should been my goats! I know them both like it was mine own brother and sister, yes! I know the biggest one by such a black spot on her forehead and the other one by such shaved places like rat ins on his back. So! I should bring them both over from Havre, and our ship got such a wreckness in the big thunder weather and Aeh, I could cry me weeping. My name is Hans Zeig and I am a poor man. Yes! I had more as two hundred goats and these two is all what I got now, and if you take them away I don't get any. No!"

One of the sailors from the battleship who had been taken on heard with Billy's mother came up just then and said that Hans was telling the truth. Mr. Brown looked perplexed.

"It's true," he said, "that we got this goat out of the ocean. It is scarcely possible that two goats should be named exactly alike and this one either slipped loose from our carriage in Havre or was taken away from us there by this man. I have already paid twice for it: once in Europe, once on the ocean and now I am expected to pay for him a third time in America. Frank get your goat and come on."

Poor Hans did not know what to say or do. Mr. Brown was evidently rich and powerful and Hans was afraid he might get himself into trouble. He looked so miserable that Mr. Brown relented, and taking out his pocketbook, handed Hans some money.

"Here," he said. "I'll buy this goat again and then I'll be tempted to hire somebody to hang it, only I'm afraid some butcher would sell it to me a fourth time for mutton."

Frank giggled at this and his father, too, cleared up his anger in a laugh. Then Billy, in spite of all his mother's bleatings was led away from her. Within an hour he was put in a baggage car of a train for the west where the Browns lived. This time he was not crated, but was tied to a ring with a stout rope.

Tomorrow Billy escapes from the train.)
